SECTION – B (READING)

7. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow :

Many great inventions are initially greeted with ridicule and disbelief. The invention of the airplane was no exception. Although many people who heard about the first powered flight on December 17, 1903 were excited and impressed, others reacted with peals of laughter. The idea of flying an aircraft was repulsive to some people. Such people called Wilbur and Orville Wright, the inventors of the first flying machine, impulsive fools. Negative reactions however, did not stop the Wrights. Impelled by their desire to succeed, they continued their experiment in aviation.

Orville and Wilbur Wright had always had a compelling interest in aeronautics and mechanics. As young boys they earned money by making toys. Later, they designed a newspaper-folding machine, built a printing press, and operated a bicycle-repair shop. In 1896 when they read about the death of Otto-Leienthal, the brothers' interest in flight grew into a compulsion.

Lelienthal, a pioneer in hang-Gliding, had controlled his gliders by shifting his body in the desired direction. This idea was repellent to the Wright brothers, however, and they searched for more efficient methods to control the balance of airborne vehicles. In 1900 and 1901, the Wrights tested numerous gliders and developed controlled techniques. The brothers' inability to obtain enough lift power for their gliders almost left them to abandon their efforts.

After further study, the Wright brothers concluded that the published tables of air pressure on curved surfaces must be wrong. They set up a wind tunnel and began a series of experiments with model wings. Because of their efforts, the old tables were replaced by the first reliable figures for air pressure on curved surfaces. This work, in turn, made it possible for the brothers to design a machine that would fly. In 1903 the Wrights built their first plane. They even designed and built their own source of propulsion- a lightweight gasoline engine. When they started the engine on December 17, 1903, the aeroplane pulsed wildly before taking off. The plane managed to stay aloft for 12 seconds, however and it flew 120 feet.

- (i) What were peoples' reaction when they heard about the first powered flight ? 2
- (ii) Who was the pioneer in hang-gliding and how did he manage his machine for desired direction ? 2
- (iii) How did the Wright brothers correct their fly-machine to get enough lift power? 3
- (iv) What had happened when the brothers started the engine of their aircraft ? 2

8. Read the following passage and give your answer as directed:

Machines have, in fact, become the slaves of modern life. They do more and more work that human beings do not want to do themselves. Think for a moment of the extent to which machines do work for you. You wake, perhaps to the hoot of a siren by a machine in a neighbouring factory. You wash in water brought to you by the aid of machinery, heated by machinery and placed in basins for your convenience by a machine. You eat your breakfast quickly cooked for you by machinery, go to school in machines made for saving leg labour. And if you are lucky to be in a very modern school, you enjoy cinema where a machine teaches you or you listen to lesson broadcast by one of the most wonderful machines. So dependent has man become on machines that a certain writer imagines at time when machines will have acquired a will of their own and become the master of men, doomed once more to slavery.
